To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation on behalf of Dylan Evans, whom I have had the privilege of teaching in Student Leadership for the past two years and advising as Student Council Advisor during that same time. In these roles, I have observed Dylan grow into an exceptional leader, communicator, and role model, culminating in his current service as Student Body President.

Dylan has served on Student Council for two years and was elected by his peers to lead the student body—an honor that speaks volumes about the trust and respect he has earned within our school community. As president, he leads meetings with confidence and professionalism, organizes and oversees large-scale school events, and represents the student body at major school functions. He approaches leadership not as a position of authority, but as a responsibility to serve others, consistently prioritizing inclusion, collaboration, and school spirit.

What sets Dylan apart is his creativity and initiative. He is a forward-thinking leader who is unafraid to propose new ideas and see them through with dedication and follow-through. Whether planning campus-wide events, mentoring younger students, or engaging the broader community, Dylan demonstrates maturity well beyond his years. He balances these responsibilities while maintaining strong academics and an impressive work ethic, which is further reflected in his extensive involvement in community service and gainful employment.

In addition to his leadership roles, Dylan shows remarkable potential through his hands-on, problem-solving mindset. His interests in engineering, architecture, and design are evident in both his coursework and independent projects, reflecting intellectual curiosity, resilience, and a commitment to learning through real-world experience. These qualities will undoubtedly serve him well in a rigorous collegiate environment and beyond.

Dylan Evans is a young man of character, creativity, and purpose. He leads with integrity, works diligently toward his goals, and consistently seeks ways to improve both himself and the community around him. I recommend him without reservation for admission to your institution, and I am confident he will make a meaningful and positive impact wherever he goes.

Please feel free to contact me should you require any additional information.

Respectfully,

Jonathan R. Colburn, Ed.D
Teacher/Coach/Student Council Advisor
